passed out and read by Robinson; it included donations from the State of California Wildlife Conservation Board, County of Sonoma Fish and Wildlife Advisory Board, the Jewish Community Agency, Sandborn Tree Service and many private citizens.

Members of the Laguna Implementation Committee, and the Laguna de Santa Rosa Foundation gave special thanks to Emmett Blincoe for his donations of $400,000 to the Laguna park project.

After the official ceremony, those willing to brave the constant drizzle took a tour of the new park and witnessed a ribbon-cutting at the new bridge.

The two new trails, one on the east side of the Laguna, and one wrapping around the outdoor classroom, are now open and are lined with many varieties of native trees and bushes.
