

Peter Tucker, pictured near his home last summer, lives along San Miguel which is slated for development. He has asked environmental agencies to take another look at protecting the vanishing wildflowers.